Good Reasons to Study at Singapore University of Social Sciences

1. One of the six autonomous universities in Singapore
2. High academic standards
3. Experienced faculty members and industry experts
4. Focus on real-world learning
5. Government tuition grant or subsidy for eligible students
6. Lifelong educational opportunities
7. Well-designed online learning resources
8. Flexible and self-paced learning
9. Industry-relevant curricula
10. Practice-oriented approach
The BA English Language and Literature programme combines the disciplines of language studies and literary studies. The language courses will give you an understanding of the language system and broaden your perspective on language use and discourse in society, while the literary courses will introduce you to a range of literary genres, periods and styles, and teach you to critically analyse and produce texts using key concepts and theories. You may opt for a minor in any discipline, such as Business, Film Studies, Psychology, Sociology or Translation.

This degree programme will be useful to people working in a variety of fields, particularly those who intend to use English professionally. Our graduates work in a wide variety of careers, such as teaching, publishing, journalism, public relations, advertising, and marketing.

You may pursue English Language and Literature as a single major or in combination with a minor.

Whom is this for?

Language is an indispensable part of how we live, work and play. The English language, in particular, is not only Singapore’s working language, but also an important global language. This degree programme will benefit anyone interested in language, but will be particularly suitable for those who use English professionally, such as English teachers, public relations professionals, journalists, writers and editors. It will also suit professionals working in a whole host of other areas such as business, marketing, administration and the arts.

Career Prospects

A BA in English will give you a strong foundation in English language and literature, and will expand your career options by equipping you with a better working knowledge, understanding and appreciation of English. You will sharpen your analytical, writing and communication skills, which can be advantageous in many fields.

A degree in English language and literature will help enhance the careers of professionals who work primarily in English or write extensively in English. Our graduates work in a wide variety of careers such as education, publishing, journalism, public relations, marketing, administration and the arts.

Those wishing to further their studies after obtaining the BA degree may consider postgraduate studies locally or overseas. Graduates of the English programme have gone on to pursue the Graduate Diploma and Master of Arts in Applied Linguistics (TESOL) programme offered at SUSS. They have also been accepted into postgraduate programmes in other leading universities, including the National University of Singapore, the University of Oxford and Columbia University.

BA MALAY LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

Programme Overview

The programme curriculum is suitable for Malay language and literature teachers, and individuals who are interested in pursuing a degree in the field for personal and professional development. This programme has a strong workplace perspective, and has been specially crafted to provide students with a good grasp of the linguistics of the Malay language within the social context of Singapore and the region. It aims to produce graduates who are well versed in applied linguistics and able to teach Malay language and literature or work as language professionals.

This programme exposes students to a range of courses on Malay linguistics, culture, literature, grammar and translation. These courses will provide students with an in-depth understanding of the Malay world and enable them to apply this knowledge to the teaching profession or other fields of applied linguistics such as editing and translating.

You may pursue Malay Language and Literature as a single major or in combination with a minor.

Whom is this for?

This programme is open to all Singapore citizens, permanent residents and residents in Singapore who are interested in and committed to pursuing a degree in Malay language and literature.

Career Prospects

Graduates of the Malay Language and Literature programme will find themselves suited for careers in teaching, print and audio media, and translating and interpreting.

Programme Structure

To graduate with a basic degree, students are to complete a total of 130 credit units (cu) of courses, comprising 20 cu of SUSS Core courses, 80 cu of major courses, and 30 cu of a minor or Free Electives (course pre-requisites apply).
BA TAMIL LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

Our graduates will be able to engage in Tamil language and literature teaching at the pre-primary, primary, secondary, and junior college levels. They can also advance their careers in broadcasting or in the courts and Parliament as interpreters.

Programme Overview

This programme provides Tamil language teachers and Tamil studies enthusiasts with an opportunity to pursue a degree. The programme curriculum is jointly developed by the Singapore University of Social Sciences (SUSS) and scholars from Tamil Nadu. This programme is similar to that offered in Tamil Nadu, while integrating local content to make it more relevant to students in Singapore.

You may pursue Tamil Language and Literature as a single major or in combination with a minor.

Whom is this for?

This programme is meant for anyone with a passion for the Tamil language. It is suitable for those who work in Tamil-related areas such as Tamil language teachers, court interpreters, and broadcasters, who wish to upgrade their academic qualifications.

Career Prospects

Our graduates will be able to engage in Tamil language and literature teaching at the pre-primary, primary, secondary, and junior college levels. They can also advance their careers in broadcasting or in the courts and Parliament as interpreters.

"It was a wonderful and enriching experience to study the BA Tamil Language and Literature programme at SUSS. The course is specifically designed for the benefit of individuals from diverse backgrounds which made it engaging and insightful. The programme vastly improved my language skills and made me engage with Tamil literature, culture, and history. Moreover, it played a pivotal role in kickstarting my teaching career, thereby changing my life forever. I am happy to share that in these three and a half years, I gained a wealth of knowledge and experience which will stay with me for the rest of my life."

Programme Overview

Launched in 2007 as Singapore's first degree programme in translation and interpretation, this programme gives students a unique advantage of gaining access to the best of both Chinese- and English-speaking worlds. Combining tertiary education with professional training, the programme enables students to achieve a mastery of Chinese and English languages and an in-depth understanding of socio-cultural differences. Students will also develop expertise in translation and interpretation through practice-oriented coursework in translation principles and strategies, cross-linguistic and cross-cultural analysis, computer-aided technologies, and domain-specific knowledge (e.g., business, finance, law, media, technology, international affairs and literature).

Placing a special emphasis on the role of technology in various aspects of translation and interpretation, this programme has state-of-the-art interpretation laboratories and the latest translation software. The bilingual, interdisciplinary and professional nature of the programme inculcates in its graduates adaptability, open-mindedness and critical thinking, preparing them for the rapidly changing world.

You may pursue Translation and Interpretation as a single major or in combination with a minor.

Whom is this for?
This degree programme is suitable for those who wish to facilitate the sharing of ideas across different regions and traditions and thus enhance global communication for a peaceful world. It is also useful for those who wish to strengthen their bilingual competence in Chinese and English and develop intercultural intelligence through professional training in translation and interpretation.

Career Prospects
Graduates majoring in translation have a broad set of transferable skills including advanced bilingual literacy and cross-cultural communication, along with their expertise in translation and interpretation. Recent graduates have proceeded to careers in management consultancy, advertising and marketing, teaching, the media and entertainment, public and social services, international organisations, law firms, banking and finance.

Translation studies not only provides the skills and knowledge we need to be effective translators and interpreters, it also helps us build the often overlooked soft skills that have an equally, if not more, important impact on our professional and social development. Taking different perspectives, we can gain greater insights into the values translation studies offers and how we can use these values for better human-technology collaboration and self-improvement.”

BACHELOR OF COMMUNICATION

Programme Overview

Communication is a burgeoning industry in Singapore and the region. The need for well-qualified professionals in the field cannot be over-emphasised. With its strong emphasis on the textual, visual and audio elements of communication, the Singapore University of Social Sciences (SUSS) Bachelor of Communication programme prepares students to perform competently in a variety of sub-fields in the communication industry.

This programme is ideal for those who are already carrying out communication-related job functions in media or other related fields but do not have the necessary tertiary qualifications to be considered for promotions or salary increases. It will also meet the needs of those who are currently employed in other kinds of work but would like to change career tracks and move into the vibrant communication or media-related fields.

The programme covers subjects ranging from media writing to media management, media production, social media and strategic communication. It provides students with the critical advantage necessary to achieve their ambitions, whether they are interested in journalism, media management, TV, radio, strategic communication, public relations, corporate communication, advertising, social media or media production.

This programme is suitable for working adults who are already employed in related fields but who are looking to add value to their existing knowledge and skills by formalising their expertise which would, in turn, create career advancement opportunities for them.

It is also meant for those in general administrative positions who are looking to acquire new and more specific knowledge and skills, and those who wish to work in the communication and media industries.

You may pursue Communication as a single major or in combination with a minor.

Whom is this for?

Career Prospects

A communication degree provides diverse opportunities in many fields. The courses in the Bachelor of Communication programme will appeal to those interested in careers in public relations, corporate communication, strategic communication, TV and print journalism, social media, media management, and even hospitality and tourism. BACHELOR OF PUBLIC SAFETY AND SECURITY

Programme Overview

Safety and security is a concern for all. From terror attacks to industrial espionage and politically motivated cyber-attacks, the world is experiencing multiple security threats that are complex and hard to detect and defend. Recognising these challenges, governments and businesses agree they need highly-trained professionals to deliver effective security outcomes. This programme aims to meet this demand and professionalise the emerging field of public safety and security.

This part-time programme provides not only theoretical knowledge but also training in intervention strategies in the area of policing, emergency management, investigation, rehabilitation, crime reduction and terrorism. The courses are designed with a balance of theory and practice, and with emphasis on the development of management, communication and critical thinking skills.

Whom is this for?

This programme is for all those who are interested in a career that focuses on the management of public safety and security. For those who are already working in related fields, the programme adopts a multidisciplinary approach that integrate theories with practical knowledge, and it creates an opportunity for career advancements.

Career Prospects

Jobs in the fields of public safety and security are diverse and go far beyond front-line, uniform-wearing, operational positions. They include exciting and engaging jobs in fields such as intelligence analysis, policy development, science and technology. Upon successful completion of this programme, graduates can look forward to a wide range of meaningful careers in the government, business and social service sectors.

Programme Structure

To graduate with a basic degree, students are to complete a total of 130 credit units (cu) of courses, comprising 20 cu of SUSS Core courses, 80 cu of major courses, and 30 cu of a minor in (1) Criminology; (2) Crisis Management; (3) Psychosocial Intervention; (4) Cyber Safety and Information Security; (5) Food Security and Sustainability; or (6) Military Studies.
Important Notes:
- All courses are 5 cu unless stated otherwise.
- The courses listed are subject to change.
- Please refer to the SUSS website for more details.

BSc PSYCHOLOGY

Programme Overview

The BSc Psychology programme covers a broad range of theoretical, conceptual, analytical and functional skills. Students will receive a comprehensive education in psychology, and may choose specialisation tracks in (1) organizational psychology; (2) health, performance and well-being; or (3) forensic psychology.

This programme is for those who are interested to find out more about the science of human behaviour. Especially enriching for those who are in jobs that involve working with people or anyone who is interested in understanding human behaviour better, this programme provides you with the skills to understand people as people.

You may pursue Psychology as a single major or in combination with a minor.

Whom is this for?

- Anyone who is curious to learn more about human behaviour.
- Those who are interested in pursuing psychology as a career.
- Anyone who wants to acquire skills to understand people as people.

Career Prospects

A psychology bachelor’s degree is a general social sciences degree. Graduates can basically work in any field. However, to pursue a career as a psychologist (e.g., as a clinical, organizational health, or sport psychologist), a higher degree in psychology is required (e.g., master’s or PhD). Some of our alumni, after having obtained an honours degree in psychology at the Singapore University of Social Sciences (SUSS), have pursued a master’s/PhD degree at SUSS and in other local and international universities.

Programme Structure

To graduate with a basic degree, students are to complete a total of 130 credit units (cu) of courses, comprising 20 cu of SUSS Core courses, 80 cu of major courses, and 30 cu of a minor or Free Electives (course pre-requisites apply).

This programme has an honours option. To graduate with an honours degree, students will have to satisfy all university requirements and complete an additional 40 cu of courses to achieve 170 cu in total. Students who achieve a cumulative grade point average (CGPA) of 3.5 and above upon completion of their basic degree may be invited to enrol in the honours programme, which will be offered only if the requisite number of students is met. Graduating students who meet the eligibility criteria for an honours classification will be awarded an honours degree based on aggregate academic performance measured by the CGPA assessed throughout the degree programme.

The BA Sociology programme covers a wide range of contemporary social issues to provide an analysis of human behaviour and society in a globalised world. It will appeal to anyone interested in understanding their social, political and cultural environment and provide a strong foundation in analytical, theoretical and methodological skills applied to contemporary issues relating to globalisation and social change, health and medicine, social stratification (race, class and ethnicity), popular culture, family, gerontology, gender, education, urban sociology, and law and order. These are studied in light of developments in the Singapore society, regionally, as well as within a global context.

Such core skills and knowledge are also essential in today’s workplace. With a fast-changing world and work environment, there is a need for working adults to be equipped with competitive skills that allow them to attain a good grounding in disciplinary knowledge, skills in evaluating empirical research and capacity to apply these skills to analyse current social trends and problems, and to propose solutions in their areas of work. Sociology, with its attention on social trends and impact of policy in both the private and public sectors, serves to equip our adult learners with these skills and prepare them for related careers.

You may pursue Sociology as a single major or in combination with a minor.

This programme is very suitable for those already working in — or wish to pursue careers within — industries and organisations such as the civil service and public administration, in social service sectors involving health, community and social development, in education, in the arts, media and creative industries, or in the private sector such as market research companies.

Those who are looking to upgrade their qualifications to enhance their skills within these professions, and who wish to develop knowledge and competencies in the area of social and cultural research, education, community and social development, market research, journalism or media are welcome to join us. Our courses also suit students who deal with social deviance and law and order, social work and counselling in their work.

Career Prospects

Graduates with a general degree in sociology, who have strong analytical and research skills, are proficient in handling data, and well versed in social trends and contemporary social issues, can be found working in the civil service and public administration, the private and commercial sector, the social service sector, and community and non-profit organisations. Sociology provides training for those involved in education, community and social development services, media and creative industries, public relations and human resources, research and marketing, policy and planning, and others.

Today’s graduates are required to be adaptable and proficient in a number of critical skills. As societal concerns become increasingly complex and evident in the considerations of policymakers, sociology-trained graduates, with their breadth and depth of societal knowledge and research skills, are well placed to contribute within their professions and to society.

TUITION FEES

The amount of course fees you pay in each semester depends on the number of courses you take in that semester. The course fees cover all study materials, classes, tutor supervision, assignments and examinations. They do not include fees for textbooks and other additional items specified by SUSS from time to time.

SCHOLARSHIPS AND FINANCIAL AID

SUSS offers scholarships to outstanding students pursuing their undergraduate studies with the University in recognition of their excellent academic achievements, leadership qualities, special talents and contributions.

There are also various types of financial aid available to students who need financial assistance during the course of their study.

Please visit suss.edu.sg for more details on the admission criteria, tuition fees and other information.
The American sociologist, Robert Park, was famous for telling his students to “go get the seat of your pants dirty in real research” and to obtain first-hand observation of their city. Indeed, fieldwork observation can be a useful tool for making sense of the changes and continuities in the city. While Waterloo Street is familiar to many of us for its multiple sites of worship and arts spaces, what are the sights, smells and sounds that constitute its way of life? Are certain groups of people or activities more invisible than others? Does this historical urban space hold surprises that challenge our assumptions about our city?

Student Testimonials:
“IT was an insightful session for us all and a great opportunity for us to connect with fellow soci people. Hope other students will have such opportunities too.”
“I thoroughly enjoyed myself and have learnt a lot.”
“It was an eye-opening experience as we tend to often walk past these sites without questioning much about the goings-on.”

‘LANGUAGE IN SINGAPORE’ FORUM 2023

On 8 September 2023, the School of Humanities and Behavioural Sciences (SHBS) hosted the ‘Language in Singapore’ Forum on campus. This forum is a signature event of SHBS and is held biennially. The theme of the 2023 forum was “Talking AI, Rethinking Humanity”—a timely topic, given the evolving advancement of artificial intelligence. Four speakers, each representing their respective language communities, discussed issues such as ethics, basic human values, and equality in their experience of and engagement with AI.

Mr Felix Cheong, Mr Bashir Basalamah, Ms Lin Rongchan and Mr Raja Mohamad reflected on the responsible use of AI in their professions, exploring not only the threats that AI poses to jobs, but also the innovative ways in which it can enhance our understanding and appreciation of language, culture, and daily experiences. The forum concluded with a lively panel discussion, moderated by Ms Khoo Sim Eng, during which speakers fielded questions from the audience to generate further insights into current and future trends shaping AI and the language landscape.

FIELDWORK IN THE CITY — THE SOCIOLOGY PROGRAMME PRESENTS FIELD TRIP #1

EVENTS AND ACTIVITIES

PUBLIC LECTURE CUM DEMONSTRATION ON ‘THE MONKEY KING’

On 7 October 2023, the Chinese Studies programme and the Trend Education Foundation collaboratively organised a Public Lecture and Peking Opera Demonstration event centered around ‘The Monkey King.’ This event served as a unique platform for participants to immerse themselves in the rich traditions and innovative facets of Chinese culture. Hosted at SUSS, it provided a fascinating insight into Chinese heritage.

During the event, Chu Lu-Hao, a renowned Taiwanese Monkey King actor, shared valuable insights into the journey of becoming a Peking opera actor. His presentation offered participants a deeper understanding of the dedication and skills required for this traditional art form. It shed light on the rigorous training and commitment integral to the craft.

Following the informative session, three exceptionally talented actors — Hsu Ting-Fang, Chin Lang, and Su Chien-Yu — treated the audience to four remarkable performances. These captivating showcases featured awe-inspiring kungfu stunts that left the participants in sheer amazement. Their physical prowess and skills were on full display, captivating everyone in attendance.

The event wasn’t just about passive observation. Attendees had the unique opportunity to learn more about the intricate costumes used in Peking Opera and even try them on. This hands-on experience added an interactive and engaging dimension to the event, enabling participants to appreciate the artistry and craftsmanship behind these costumes. The event, combining cultural enrichment with interactivity, fostered a deeper appreciation for Chinese culture and the performing arts.

ADAPTATIONS AND INNOVATIONS OF CULTURAL FESTIVALS: A CASE STUDY ON SINGAPORE’S GETAI AND HUNGRY GHOST FESTIVAL

The Chinese Studies programme organised an academic talk on 29 June 2023 where our guest speaker, Professor Zeng Ling, from Xiamen University explained how the Hungry Ghost Festival, which originated in Southern China, has been celebrated in Singapore and how “getai” became the most common form of entertainment during the festival. This is a case study based on the “Cultural China” framework for sociocultural research on overseas Chinese communities.

STUDY TRIP TO SUPREME COURT FOR STUDENTS OF SUSS TRANSLATION AND INTERPRETATION PROGRAMMES

On 20 September 2023, students of BA Translation and Interpretation programme joined a study trip to the Supreme Court Singapore. Students first attended a criminal court to observe an open trial. The accused only spoke Malay and hence a Malay-English interpreter was present for simultaneous interpretation. They later observed a trial in a civil court.

The highlight of the visit was the interaction between students and court interpreters. The sharing by court interpreters about their day-to-day tasks and challenges at work gave students greater insights into court interpreters’ role in the administration of justice. A mock court session was then conducted with students playing the roles of prosecutor, defendant and interpreter, and court interpreters giving students feedback. And what came as a pleasant surprise at the end of the visit was the news that one of the participants will join the Supreme Court as a court interpreter in November upon graduation!

FILM STUDIES: FILMMAKER VISITS & MOVIE SCREENING

Film Studies regularly organises enrichment events for students. In 2023, there were five sessions with award-winning filmmakers and a movie screening with Q&A. Below are photos from some of the sessions.

Director Alvin Lee, whose short film Smoke Gets in Your Eyes won best short film at the 35th China Golden Rooster Award, showed students how to tell a story visually through framing.

Director Ho Cheuk Tin, who was in Singapore to attend the Hong Kong Gala Film Presentation (HKGFP), shared his experiences as a filmmaker in Hong Kong.

Film Studies organised a screening of the Singapore-Malaysia film La Luna. Singapore director M. Raihan Halim was present for a Q&A session. Guests from non-profit organisation Singapore Muslim Women’s Association (PPIS) were also invited.

Actress Tan Kheng Hua visited the Singapore Film class and shared some of the differences between filming in Singapore and overseas, with anecdotes from her time filming shows like Phua Chu Kang and Crazy Rich Asians.
